FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Monday September 7th 2015 – Lisbon, Portugal – Unspeakable Studios is pleased to announce its first mobile gaming title, “Halls of Darkness” for Android. With an H.P. Lovecraft inspired story, this adventure horror game aims to bring a different, refreshing type of game to the mobile platform.

Travel through eerie mansions, graveyards, caves, and more in search of your missing friend before he falls into the hands of a cult, hell-bent on offering him as a sacrifice to their god. Find different items and access different areas of the maps to unlock various playable characters with their own unique personality and point of view. But, be fast, as terrorizing events may cause you to lose sanity, spiraling yourself into dark, dark situations.

There are various ways to play Halls of Darkness. The story and personalities of the characters are developed entirely based on your decision and the sanity of your characters. Can you find your friend in time, or will you all suffer unspeakable horrors?

Halls of Darkness was released in early September 2015 as a completely free to play game with no in-app purchases.

Unspeakable Studios is a brand new, three man Indie team set on creating unique, fun, creative games driven by quality and passion. The team has previous experience in the gaming industry and have worked on and released several projects.
