Ultimate Disc Golf - Press Release

TREE Industries Creates The “Ultimate Disc Golf” Video Game:

St. Louis based company is building a fully immersive and comprehensive disc golf video game for pcs and consoles. The inside scoop is they are attempting to make it the most realistic/fun Ultimate Disc Golf video game ever created.

This innovative divergent technology company TREE Industries has been busy building the tools for the future for two years now. They also like to have fun. TREE industries in their off time for the past two years has been playing disc golf, playing video games, spending time at family fun and sporting events. It was only natural that CTO Joshua Johnson, a veteran disc golfer for 20 years, started to build a gaming branch for TREE Industries in some of his down time. He bravely brought the first version (Disc Golf Pro) to the team. We were excited about the concept, but it was pretty rough and needed some work. Then Ultimate Disc Golf Video Game was born out of Disc Golf Pro, and thankfully it is a lot prettier and was all around fun to play. We are excited that there has been a lot of attention that is surrounding it right now.

“What Josh and the team at TREE Industries have been building for the Alpha Release of Ultimate Disc Golf video game is just another example of the creative divergent thinking that we encourage here at TREE Industries”, says CEO Jill Johnson. Word on the street is they plan on keeping the price point low for UDG in the spirit of Disc Golf and TREE Industries, both having a foundation of being affordable, accessible, and for everyone.

“Ultimate Disc Golf” will be having an open alpha starting December 14th 2019 on PC.
